Hurricane Sandy

In 2012, a once-in-a-century storm event occurred over the Atlantic Ocean, contributing to more than 180 deaths from Jamaica to Cuba and onward to the east coast of the United States. The storm flooded streets, subway stations, parks, homes, and airports. It knocked out electricity to more than 750000 homes and businesses.

Millions are left without power, food, water, and basic sanitation. Many people who used to come home and have dinner with their loved ones will now have to seek shelter elsewhere.

CSS CHARITY answered by deploying power generators and tents to the people in New York and New Jersey.
